How do I decide which category to apply to?

There are three categories to select from and you can only choose one for your application. Projects may intersect with more than one category, so we advise asking yourself, “On which area of my project will this grant have the greatest impact?” The examples in our guidelines under each category are not an exhaustive list of what can be funded and are intended to provide examples of projects that align with that category.

How does my choice of category affect the review of my application?

The category you choose is the one your project will be assessed in. If, for example, you choose Community and Sector Impact, your project will be assessed alongside other projects for which that is the primary focus.

Does BC Arts Council have a specific priority for the types of projects funded through the Arts Impact Grant?

No. The Arts Impact grant is intended to provide flexible funding, allowing eligible arts and culture organizations and collectives to prioritize the project that will have the most meaningful impact on their organization, artistic practice, or community. It is up to the applicant to make a compelling case to the assessors for the urgency of the project, how it aligns with the assessment criteria, and why it is a priority.

Does my project need to be completed within a year?

No. You cannot apply for activities starting before the intake deadline of April 9, 2025. Your project can start any time after this date, there is no requirement to complete projects by a specified date, and your project can be of any duration.

When will I find out if my application has been funded?

You will be informed of the results of your application by the end of July 2025. If you choose to start your project before you receive the results and you are successful, you can apply the funds retroactively. All applicants will be notified at the same time, regardless of when they submitted their application.

What is the maximum amount of funding I can request?

The maximum request amount is $30,000. The request may be up to 100% of the total project budget; matching funding is not required. If your project does have other revenue sources, please indicate if that revenue is confirmed or pending in your project budget.

I am an individual artist working on a project with an organization. Can I apply?

No, individuals cannot apply to the Arts Impact Grant. If the organization you are working with is an eligible arts and culture organization or collective, they could submit the application.

I am part of a group of volunteers with an idea for an arts and culture project, but we are not a collective of artists nor a registered non-profit society. Can we apply?

No, but you could seek out an eligible arts and culture organization or collective to partner with on the project and they could submit an application.

I work in a school that wants to apply for an arts project. Can the school apply?

No, schools are not eligible to apply. Please look to the Artists in Education grant program and the Artists in the Classroom program, funded by the BC Arts Council, and administrated by ArtStarts in Schools.

My municipality/town/community has a project in mind. Can we apply?

No, but you could seek out an eligible arts and culture organization or collective to partner with on the project and they could submit an application.

I am an artist collaborating on a project with a group of artists who I consistently work with. Can we apply as an arts collective?

To be eligible as an arts or curatorial collective, your collective must be established and readily identified as a collective consisting of three or more individuals who are professionally active in their field of practice, each of whom must meet the eligibility criteria outlined in the program guidelines. We recommend you contact a Program Advisor to establish if your collective is eligible before you apply. To establish eligibility, you will need to provide names of each collective member; examples to demonstrate how they meet the criteria; and examples of a demonstrated history of creation and public presentation of work by the current collective, for which artist fees were received.

Collectives with two members or ad hoc collectives may be eligible to apply to Individual Arts Grants programs for a collaborative project.

My organization receives Operating Assistance from the BC Arts Council. Can my organization apply for an Arts Impact Grant?

Yes, organizations which receive Operating Assistance are eligible. You cannot apply for projects that are already directly funded through your Operating Assistance grant. However, if – as an example – the primary focus of your project is the strengthening, expansion, or stabilization of the organization (Foundational Impact), you can apply for related operating expenses such as funding to hire staff as your organization moves from a working board to a governing board.

How many applications do you receive and what is the success rate?

Because this program is very flexible, we receive a high volume of applications (almost 400 in 2024) and a high demand for funding, making it a very competitive program. The BC Arts Council targets a 20-40% success rate across all programs although our current success rate is at the lower end of that range.

How is the impact of my project assessed?

Applications are reviewed by an independent assessment panel. Your application will be scored against each of the three areas of assessment as listed in the program guidelines. These are: Reconciliation, Equity, Diversity, Inclusion, and Access (30%), Impact (50%), and Organizational Readiness (20%).

Successful applications show how the project will address the criteria for each general assessment area.

Can I apply for equipment such as a kiln for our community art program?

Yes, you can request up to $2,500 for directly related capital expenses or equipment purchases such as audio, video, lighting, exhibition, kilns, or other equipment that is primarily used for artistic programming. Consumable supplies such as ink, paint, or paper are also eligible.

If you are looking for additional funding for higher-value capital and/or building-related expenses or other specialized equipment, look at the Arts Infrastructure program.

My project includes hiring someone but it's not the focus of the project. Do I need to submit a job description?

The reference to a one-page job description in the Support Material section of the program guidelines is only relevant for applications that focus on new hires. A job description is not necessary if hiring is only a part of a larger project.

In the last two years, our organization received an Arts Infrastructure grant from BC Arts Council for $70,000 and no other grants. Does this mean we must upload a Review Engagement report to our online profile before submitting our application?

If applying as a non-profit arts and culture organization, you must upload signed financial statements for your two most recent completed fiscal years to your online Organization

Profile. The type of financial statements required is based on the single largest BC Arts Council grant received in the organization's previous two fiscal years, not including Arts Impact Grants or Arts Infrastructure Program grants.

The table in the program guidelines outlines the type of financial statements required depending on the type of BC Arts Council grant previously received. In this example, the organization is only required to provide internally prepared financial statements.

Our organization is working on a project that was funded through another BC Arts Council program. Can we still apply to Arts Impact?

Yes, you can apply even if you have other currently active BC Arts Council-funded projects. However, you cannot apply for additional funding for the same project, and you cannot submit an Arts Impact Grant application if you have an overdue Final Report for that or any other outstanding grant.

Our organization is holding a conference/symposium next year. Can we apply to the Arts Impact program to fund this event?

No. Conferences and symposia are not eligible activities for this program.

I would like to apply for three separate events that our organization is holding throughout the year. Is this eligible?

No, you may apply for a single project or event with one application. You should pick the event that best matches the priorities of the Arts Impact program and that best aligns with the Assessment Criteria as outlined in the program guidelines.

If multiple activities are directly related and/or connected to each other, this may be eligible. For example, multiple components or stages of a single art exhibit such as commissioning fees, accessibility expenses, staffing costs, and travel expenses. We recommend that you contact a Program Advisor for confirmation.
